what is the RECOVERY ORIENTED SUPERVISION training program?

Many of us are using powerful principles of recovery to assist others in healing and improving their lives.

What would happen if a leader worked to intentionally create a culture of recovery within his/her team?

The ROS training will inspire you and give you tangible tools that you can use with the people who you supervise immediately.

The training will go through the four stages of Recovery: Hope, Empowerment, Self Responsibility and Meaningful Roles and explore theories and techniques of how to apply the stages in our role as supervisors.

Participation in the program includes:

1. a 2-day highly interactive training
2. a follow up training to solidify learning from the 2-day & learn a few more tools
3. webinars
4. ongoing access to trainers and leaders in the field.

What: There will be breakout sessions for older adult, adult and children service providers so all are encouraged to attend.

Who: A maximum of 30 LEADERS per service area will be accepted into the training. Those who are not currently in supervisory positions are welcome to attend as long as they are interested in becoming a supervisor or play a leadership role in some capacity where they work.

Where: In each fiscal year, we will have 8 trainings (1 in each service area). Participants may attend a training in a service area outside of the one where they work.
